The largest wildlife sanctuary in Africa, the Selous Game Reserve was declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site in 1982. Covering an area the size of Switzerland, this spectacular wilderness holds over 50% of Tanzania's total elephant population, as well as rare wild dog, black rhino and some 440 species of birds. It also boasts a huge diversity of game animals, with some of the largest herds left on the continent, especially wildebeest, zebra, impala and some 200,000 buffalo, making it a rich hunting ground for lion, leopard and cheetah.

DAYS 6 AND 7 - Ruaha National Park.

Two full days in Ruaha, one of Africa's best kept secrets - a spectacular landscape of baobab trees, sandstone gorges and lush forests, all fed by the waters of the great Ruaha River. These two days will see you enjoy exhilarating game drives through this pristine country, experiencing the diversity of a unique transition zone, where the flora and fauna of the eastern and southern regions of Africa cross over before the majestic backdrop of the Great Rift Valley. Large herds of antelopes populate these plains, making it ideal territory for the ever-present predators. Lion, leopard and cheetah all hunt amongst these spectacular landscapes and it is one of the best places in Africa to view the elusive and endangered African wild dog. The shallows of the Ruaha's flowing waters are the preserve of huge prehistoric-looking crocodiles, whilst the skies are alive with some of the 500 species of bird recorded here.
